

U. S. SOLDIERS SAVE 1800 IN FLU EPIDEMIC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Credit for saving the lives of 1800 American soldiers during the fall of 1918, is given to officers of the 27th United States Infantry by Edith, Col. Ferdinand Heiler, of the former Austro-Hungarian army, in an open letter to the press of America and Hungary. Col. Heiler, who was awarded the state department by the American mission at Budapest, says an epidemic of influenza had threatened to convert the camp into a "vast cemetery" when personnel of the American engineers took charge and transformed the "wretched hospital accommodations" provided by the Hungarian authorities into a model establishment. Col. Heiler declared he felt it his first and most sacred duty in returning to his country to "tell the world" that he and his comrades saved their lives, health and happiness and power for good in the world to the noble American officers of the 27th regiment, and in the great American nation.

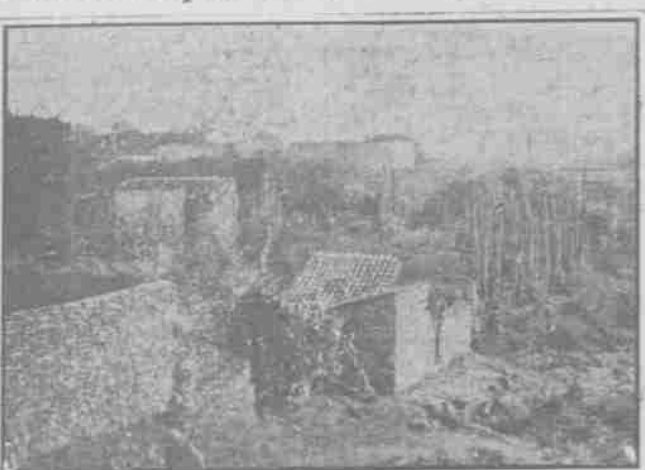

DIES IN BLAZE HE STARTED IN U. S. HOSPITAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—Sergeant Alvin Messinger, formerly of the Seventh coast artillery, is believed to have burned to death in several other soldiers were injured in a fire that destroyed two psychopathic wards of Walter Reed military hospital. The fire, which hospital authorities believe was started by one of the patients with matches smuggled into his room, threatened for a time to spread to other wards, including several in which disabled world war veterans are patients, and checked by the combined efforts of the hospital and fire departments.

REVENUE MEN AID PUBLIC ON INCOME TAXES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—A county to county campaign by internal revenue officers to aid taxpayers in preparing income tax returns was announced by commissioner Williams to begin shortly after January 1 and continue until March 15, final date for filing statistics of income for the year 1920.

Picturesque Mexico: Queretaro

A CORNER in ancient Queretaro, showing tall cactus serving as a "lady's house." Tiles are so common in that part of Mexico, where they are manufactured on a large scale, that even the outhouses are roofed with them. The picture shows one of these outhouses falling down, yet with its tiles roof on it. Queretaro is one of the oldest cities of Mexico and one of the most picturesque to the visitor.

Secrets Of The Movies Revealed

Q. WHAT is one of the biggest items of expense in the production of a motion picture?

A. The settings, and particularly the interior settings, form one of the big items of expense in the production of a picture. Picture fairs are so critical now that a set can only be used for one picture and even the same pieces of furniture and rugs cannot be used often. For this reason also it would be almost fatal for the star to wear the same gown in more than one picture. Even the simplest of interior sets cost hundreds of dollars and the lavish interiors of palatial homes often cost from three to six thousand dollars.

Q. Where was Vincent Coleman born, how did he begin his actor career and in what plays did he score his success?

A. New York city's Second avenue was the birthplace of Vincent Coleman. He began his career on the stage and then turned to the movies, starting with "Constance Talmadge." Last season he was seen in the Broadway production "Martini." His ambition is to continue acting on both the stage and screen. Coleman is still young, being only twenty-four.

Q. Where does Lila Lee live, is she dark or light and how she is sister on the stage?

A. The dark haired and dark eyed Lila lives in Hollywood, California.

Q. What is the Glah family's correct name?

A. Unlike many stars the Glah girls have kept their family name for screen use.

Q. Who is the larger stature, Viola Dana or Shirley Mason?

A. Shirley is one inch taller and one pound lighter in weight than her sister Viola, who is four feet, eleven inches tall and weighs ninety-six pounds.—Copyright, 1920, Thompson Feature Service.
